Southern Methodists opposed to unification with other branches of the church decided yesterday, within a few hours of the merger vote at the general conference in Birmingham, to pour funds into retirement of the bonded indebtedness of Weslevan College at Macon in an effort to "preserve this oldest woman's college in behalf of southern Methodism."

church will not perish." The southern church was formed after separation from northern units in 1844, brought about by a controversy over negro slavery. Opponents raised the negro question today in fighting unification If secessionists make no serious inroads among the 3,000,000 southern members, the new "Methodist church" will have approximately 8,000,000 on its rolls.

Before the vote was announced. Bishop John M. Moore stated the College of Bishops would appeal to the church's judicial council, ing to a supreme church court, to rule on legality of the method of adoption. Contend It's Illegal.

Opponents contend the conference here could not make final ratification because the north Mississippi annual conference voted against the plan, and approval of 'each" annual conference is provided in the constitution.

If the council holds unification legally enacted, the laymen's group has announced it would appeal to the civil courts to perpetuate "a separate church for southern Methodists.' Plan Is Attacked.

Following the review, Frank Di
Cristina, of Boys' High school, who drew the honor post of troop commander, presented Major General Moseley with a bronze plaque as a token of appreciation from mem-bers of R. O. T. C. units in At-lanta and Fulton and DeKalb

Major General Moseley praised the boys and said "the country has little to fear when youths of such caliber are in training."

In the competitive review yesterday morning, before Brigadier General Robert Van Horn, of Fort McPherson, Russell High school's company won the banner for the best-drilled unit.

Three Units Participate. Russell, Fulton and North Fulton High school units participated in the review in the morning. Then, shortly after noon, the companies again took to the field, augmented by companies from Boys', Tech and Decatur High schools, for the review before General Moseley.

Thirty-seven youths of the three Fulton county high schools were awarded medals by the army, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Reserve Officers' Association and the Daughters of the American Revolution for meritorious work in the R. O. T. C. dur-

CIRCUS OF SCOUTS IS BIG FEATURE OF YOUTH WEEK

'Out-of-Doors Day' Today Opens Program Sponsored by Many Clubs.

Youth week, planned by a group of more than 20 civic clubs and welfare organizations to demon-strate what Atlanta is doing to train boys and girls for leader-ship, will be launched formally today with the observance of "out-of-door day," to be climaxed tonight by the ninth annual Boy Scout circus.

W. W. Snow, general chairman w. w. Snow, general charman of the week's program, said games and contests will be staged in Piedmont, Maddox, Adair and Bes-sie Branham parks from 9:30 o'clock until noon today, with all Atlanta children i .vited to participate. There will be track activities, dodgeball and various "freak" contests for youths of every age.

Special Program Planned.

In addition to these events, there will be a special program for boys and girls at Lakewood park, including a fishing rodeo and nu-merous games and stunts.

All activities today will be un-der the direction of the Atlanta Works Progress Administration recreation division, which carries on a program of supervised play throughout the year. Special di-rectors of the Optimist Club who have made plans for the day include G. Frank Garrison, chairman; Tubby Walton, Ed Copeland Horace Smith and I. Gloer Hailey Circus to Draw Many.

The Boy Scout circus, beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Grant field, is expected to draw a crowd of 10,000 persons. Plans for it were completed definitely yester-day, according to Weaver M. Marr, executive of the Atlanta area

Youth week will be continued through next Saturday. The emphasis tomorrow will be placed on attendance at churches, while Monday's activities will feature

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 30, 1938.

A BUSINESS PROBLEM

The report that President Roosevelt is considering creation of a hew "inner council" of advisers composed of some of the nation's greatest businessmen brings new encouragement to a people who have been seriously worried over economic, employment and business conditions in the United States during the past half year.

It is self-evident to every man of rational mind that the problem of the nation today is basically a business problem. It is business which has slowed down and it is through business only that the road back to general economic security and individual prosperity can be found.

It therefore seems logical to the man on the street to look to successful businessmen as being best able to advise, to suggest and to direct national affairs. In any event, in so far as they are of domestic, or internal nature only.

Latest reports from those statistical sources which provide a fairly true picture of the national condition are encouraging. While industry still reveals a downward course in its chart of activity, that down trend has slowed to great degree since the last survey. Industry and business have almost reached the "leveling off" stage, where they will probably remain for a while. Then, provided there are no new forces of disruption to interfere, the expectation is that a steady climb upward will begin.

Too many theorists and experimenters have pressed their ideas upon the government in recent years. The result has not been happy. Some features of their programs are worth retaining. There are some new practices of government which must be continued and which, undoubtedly, will make easier the future road to universal contentment.

But, in the main, the nation must look to its businessmen for solution of present problems and for economic guidance in the future.

For the fact remains, regardless of politics and theories and social experimentation, that every individual in this nation depends ultimately upon business, in some form or other. This is a nation founded upon individual initiative and there is not one who does not prosper when business is good, or suffer when business

CLOVER BLOSSOM FESTIVAL

One of the most unusual events of its kind in the state every spring is the crimson clover blossom festival at Hartwell. It was celebrated for the fifth consecutive year yesterday. More than 3,500 farmers and their families from every section of north Georgia participated in the festivities.

Many misleading stories have been written about erosion and the fertile land which, because of neglect, has been allowed to go to waste. Georgia and erosion have been too often falsely represented as synonymous by poorly informed writers. But little has been written by these so-called factual writers regarding the steps being taken to combat this natural enemy of hillside farming.

Ten years ago less than a dozen Hart county planters were interested in crimson clover. Only 25 acres were planted to it. But the farmers of this section, awakened to the need of soil building and conservation, and other progressive methods, planted in excess of 8,000 acres this spring. And fine dividends are being paid on the effort expended.

But this is only one of many things being done to improve farming in the state. Legumes of all kinds are being grown more and more each year. The farmer has realized the wisdom of conserving his most valuable asset, the rich soil of his farm. He has gone in for better terracing, prompt checking of erosion at the beginning and better all-around care of his prop-

There are ample facilities in the state and competent men in charge to guide farmers in all phases of improved agriculture. And the farmers of Hart county are to be commended for taking full advantage of such opportunities.

THE COUNTIES' PROBLEM

The open-minded, free discussion and the alert approach to Georgia problems exhibited at the meeting of the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia in Macon comes as a refreshing commentary on the state scene.

The county commissioners, faced with pressing problems in the rearrangement of archaic state revenue systems and the economic difficulties of the general populace, met and frankly discussed means toward making Georgia a better state in which to live. The officials, to be sure, differed in their conception of the proper solution of financial problems resulting from tax method changes, but without the bitterness which frustrates intelligent, measured action.

That some relief for the counties is necessary is obvious, but the method is not one which can be decided overnight. It may rest in greater state expenditures to replace those lost to the counties, or yet again may rest in a consolidation of these governmental units for greater efficiency in operation. The Raisty report recently released cites the advantages of this plan. On the other hand, the people of Georgia may consider it more advantageous to keep the small unit plan. Whatever the final outcome of the problem, it appears obvious that it will be worked out in accordance with the wishes of the people and without rancor.

The commissioners also demonstrated they realize true and lasting progress of the state will come only with an increase in the income level of the agricultural population, a goal which can only be attained through their cooperation. The interest with which they greeted the speech of Commissioner W. D. McCranie, of Dodge county, in which he outlined the work of the citizens of that county which won for them first honors in The Constitution Progressive Government Awards competition, is an evidence of this realization.

They also evinced great interest in the Plant-to-Prosper campaign now in progress, through which it is hoped the work of the individual farmers will be advanced.

The commissioners evidently realized that the solution of the problem of Georgia agriculture does not lie in a general panacea, but in intelligent guidance of education for each farmer. It might well be said the situation is not one problem, but 273,000 individual problems representing one for each farm home in the state; which must be solved in 273,000 different ways. A plant-to-prosper campaign in its final analysis furnishes the groundwork through which these individual problems may be started on their way to solution. It is here the commissioners find their greatest opportunity, and upon them will rest much of the success of the drive to raise the general income and health level through diversified farming and improvement of land and buildings.

Great progress has been made through the co-operation of commissioners with other agencies during the last few years, and the grasp of the problems evidenced at the Macon meeting assures that great strides will be made through the years to come.

The commissioners are to be congratulated on the keen, disinterested approach they are making to the problems confronting the state, and the continued co-operation of state, county and city authorities and all rural and urban organizations augurs well for the future.

THE BOY SCOUT CIRCUS

Tonight, at Grant field, 2,000 of Atlanta's finest boyhood will demonstrate, before a great throng, just what they have achieved by self training, under wise leadership, in the arts of Scouting. The occasion is the annual "Boy Scout Circus," the most important event of the year to all local Scouts. And, to older people with vision, it should likewise rank as near the top in importance. For there is nothing which gives greater assurance of fine American citizenship for the future, than the training imparted to the boys of today through Scout work.

The average man probably knows little of the work done in Boy Scouting. Suffice it to say that the principles instilled in boys, the. abilities taught them and the character implanted within their hearts is of the exact stuff of which the finest American men are built.

At the Scout circus tonight the various items of entertainment have been originated, worked out and perfected by the boys themselves. The result of their long, and self-imposed, training is that there is no lack of perfection in the entire offering.

Grant field has a tremendous seating capacity. But if it was crowded to overflowing it would not be too great a tribute to Scouts, or a too forceful demonstration of Atlanta's appreciation of the value of Scouting for her boys.

The automobile of the future, says a prophet, will draw electricity from the air. For awhile it will seem strange, calling at a U. S. weather bureau for battery service.

Editorial of the Day

A CLEAR DEFINITION OF PRESS FREEDOM (From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

It is doubtless true that a misconception has sprung up about freedom of the press, to the effect that it is a special right granted for the benefit of publishers. The American Society of Newspaper Editors, in convention at Washington, did an excellent thing in adopting a resolution that places this constitutional guaranty in its proper setting. The resolution says:

Too many citizens regard freedom of the press as merely the profitable privilege of publishers, instead of the right of all the people and the chief institution of representative government. A free press is that privilege of citizenship which makes governmental dictatorship impossible.

The publishers' stake in freedom of the press is a great one, to be sure, but the people's stake is even greater. It is the right of learning the truth from printed pages over whose contents the government has no control. Dictatorship can mold its subjects' opinions because it dominates the press and other channels of expression. In a free country, however, truth is in the field, and the actions of officials, from the President down, are exposed to appraisal and criticism from all points

Freedom of the press is a privilege of no special class, but of the whole people.

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

FIRST INCIDENT WASHINGTON, April 29.—The President's interview with Henry Ford and the funda-mentally more significant plea for co-operation from 16 business leaders, are only the first incidents of a broad program. The object of the program is to get business and the White House to kiss and make up. And the program's success is vitally important, because, if business and the White House don't kiss and make up this time, they probably never will.

start, many difficulties have confronted the moderate New Dealers, like the SEC Commissioner John W. Hanes, who are the program's sponsors. The statement of the 16 business leaders, for example, would have been the statement of 25 or 35 business leaders if every man who was asked to sign it had consen

Among others who are understood to have refused to join in the friendly gesture toward the New Deal are the heads of the three largest industrial companies in the United States-Walter S. of American Telephone & Telegraph; Alfred P. Sloan, of General Motors, and Edward R. Stettinius Jr., of United States Steel Too much importance should not be attached to the absence of individual names from the list of 16 co-operators. The important thing is that a fair number of men who were sounded out about the statement did not wish to touch it.

GOOD EXCUSES Moreover, the fact that a number of business leaders have now refused a friendly gesture does not at all mean that they will refuse one in the future. Take the case of Mr. Stettinius.

Possibly the forceful new chairman of big steel's board would have liked to sign the statement; possibly not. At any rate, his excuse was quite valid. He is a comparatively young man newly elected to a high position; as a member of Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper's business advisory council he has already been active in government-business dealings, and probably will be active in the future. Therefore, it might well seem presumptuous in him to do anything more.

One important point in the new kiss-and-make-up program in which Mr. Stettinius will join is a business advisory council statement backing up the friendly words of the co-operative sixteen. And it is possible that Mr. Stettinius may also take the air, along with a dozen or so other businessmen of like stature, in a sort of government-business radio forum which is now being planned.

TRADING BUTTER If the kiss-and-make-up program goes through, and it is to the interest of every wage-earner in this country that it should, all sorts of additional gestures of friendship will be made on both sides. The White House will butter the businessmen, and more businessmen will butter the White House. Ordinarily the prospect of such a "You grease me and I'll grease you" commerce would be rather funny. But this happens to be a time when raw wounds on both sides need a little grease to cover them. And if the grease is withheld on either side, the wounds will only ache the more, and the quarrel between business and the administration will grow more disastrously bitter.

Fortunately, what has been done to date has been well received at the White House. The President very definitely approved the business leaders' statement, and his emissaries are now in close touch with the men who are pushing the kiss-and-make-up program forward.

THE SIXTY HOURS The President's brother-in-law, G. Hall Roosevelt, who is also an officer of the Ford-controlled Commercial Credit Company, was, of course, responsible for bringing Mr. Ford and the President together. But to Commissioner Hanes must go the chief credit for the rather daring notion that business and the New Deal might be able to kiss and make up.

The effort to bring the New Deal and business together depended, in the first instance, on the tone of the President's recent message to congress and fireside chat. When it was certain that the tone would be conciliatory, which was when copies of the two state papers were distributed and not before, the peace-makers set

The idea of a friendly statement from business leaders had long been in the ar. It was not, however, until last Sunday that Mr. Hanes began recruiting statement makers. He started with the group of men whom his friends in the New Deal considered most obstinately hostile. Only when he had persuaded these angry fellows to sign on the dotted line, he broadened his effort.

The amount of Mr. Hanes' telephone bills for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday must be quite appalling. Some of the recruiting work was done by the first joiners, but he had to carry the brunt. More, the statement was written co-operatively, and every time Owen D. Young had a suggestion in New York, Robert N. Cabell had to be telephoned for an O. K. at Armour & Company in Chicago. The statement was originated, written, signed and finished in 60 hours. It was a hasty first step, but if there are others like it, it was an immensely important one. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

Wife Comments On a Busy Husband.

They tell this story of Lowell Thomas, famous radio commentator, illustrative of the many activities he crowds into each day. His wife, they say, grows sarcastic, on occasion, over the difficulty even she experiences in seeing him or talking with him for an odd moment.

Then, the story goes, she will halt him somewhere in mid flight and say, with smiling satire:
"You remember me, don't you? I'm Mrs. Thomas.

The National Income.

When President Roosevelt, in his recent "fireside chat," spoke of national income he was supposed to be speaking of combined annual earnings of everyone in the United States. You may recall he said the national income for 1938 would be about 56 billion dollars, that in 1932 it was 38 billions and it was 81 billions. These figures are, of course, ap-tional tragedy to promote his own nterests. Most of us were innocent then and Mr. Roosevelt's spirited speeches, in immediate contrast to the rather stuffy delivery of Herbert Hoover, were an inspiration not only to the unemployed, but to millions of others who hadn't had a chance to study him or to reflect that, after all, his organization was composed of practical politicians not much different from the practical men of the Republican administrations.

GRAFT PROBE RUNS INTO FEDERAL LAW

Conflict of Georgia and federal laws in regard grand jury hearing of witnesses caused a flurry of telephone calls last night between Atlanta and Washington.

Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews, in charge of the Fulton county grand jury's graft in-quiry, said he has subpoenaed a federal prisoner now serving at the Atlanta penitentiary for appearance tomorrow.

Georgia law provides no one may accompany a witness before the grand jury. Federal law requires a prisoner be ac-

Andrews said he had tried unsuccessfully to communicate with President Roosevelt and high officials of the justice and ttorney general's departments. He added he would telephone United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings tomorro to ask special suspension of the law to permit the prisoner to enter the grand jury chamber.

BROTHERS ARRESTED IN SAFE ROBBERIES

Definitely Connected' With Theater and Plant Burglaries, Police Say.

Two men who police said are "definitely connected" with the $2,104 Alpha theater robbery last October 17 were arrested on suspicion of burglary last night by Detectives J. J. Chester and W. M. Holland.

The detectives also said the suspects, Louis and Fred Head. brothers, of Bolton, were allegedly involved in the robbery of the Moncrief Furnace Company last September 25, when an undetermined amount of cash was taken from a safe.

Both were arrested at their home. They were held without bond. Police said both have criminal records in Fulton county. The theater robbery occurred when safe crackers entered a sky-light and then "blew" a safe.

ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE ON ECONOMIC CONCENTRATIONS

Liberty Unsafe Unless Business Provides Employment, He Writes

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(AP)
The text of President Roosevelt's monopoly message to congress

Unhappy events abroad have retaught us two simple truths about the liberty of a democratic people.

The first truth is that the liberty of a democracy is not safe if the people tolerate the growth of private power to a point where it becomes stronger than democratic state itself. That, in its essence, is Fascism -ownership of government by an individual, by a group, or by any other controlling private

The second truth is that the liberty of a democracy is not safe if its business system does not provide employment and produce and distribute goods in such a way as to sustain an acceptable standard of living.

Both lessons hit home. Among us today concentration of private power without equal istory is growing.

This concentration is seriously impairing the economic effectiveness of private enterprise as a way of providing employment for labor and capital and as a way of assuring a more equitable distribution of income and earnings among the people of the nation

1. THE GROWING CONCEN-OF ECONOMIC

Statistics of the Bureau of Internal Revenue reveal the following amazing figures for 1935:

Ownership of corporate assets: Of all corporations reporting from every part of the nation, one-tenth of 1 per cent of them owned 52 per cent of the assets of all of

And to clinch the point: Of all corporations report-ing, less than 5 per cent of them owned 87 per cent of all the assets of all of them. Income and profits of corpora-

Of all the corporations reporting from every part of the country, one-tenth of 1 per cent of them earned 50 per cent of the net income of all of them:

And to clinch the point: Of all the manufacturing corporations reporting, less than 4 per cent of them earned 84 per cent of all the net profits of all of them.

The statistical history of modern times proves that in times of depression concentration of business speeds up. Bigger business then has larger opportunity to grow still bigger at the expense of smaller competitors who are weakened by financial adversity. The danger of this centralizain a handful of huge corporations is not reduced or eliminated, as is sometimes urged, by the wide public distribution of their securities. The mere number of security-holders gives little clue to the size of their individual holdings or to their actual ability to have a voice in the management. In fact the concentration of stock ownership of cor-porations in the hands of a tiny minority of the population matches the concentration of corporate assets. 1929 was a banner year for distribution of stock ownership, but in that year:

Three-tenths of 1 per cent of our population received 78 per cent of the dividends reported by individuals. This has roughly the same effect as if, out of every 300 persons in our population, one person received 78 cents out of every dollar of corporate dividends while the other 299 persons divided up the other cents between them.

The effect of this concentration is reflected in the distribution of A recent study by the National

Reources Committee shows that in 1935-36

47 per cent of all American families and single indi-viduals living alone had incomes of less than $1,000 for the year; and at the other end of the ladder a little less than 1 1-2 per cent of the nation's families received incomes which in dollars and cents reached the same total as the incomes of the 47 per cent at the bottom;

Furthermore, to drive the point home, the Bureau of Internal Revenue reports that estate tax returns in 1936, show that:

33 per cent of the property which was passed by inheritance was found in only 4 per cent of all the reporting estates. (And the figures of concentration would be 'ar more impressive if we included all the smaller estates which, under the law, do not have to report.)

We believe in a way of living in which political democracy and free private enterprise for profit should serve and protect each other—to insure a maximum of human liberty not for a but for all.

It has been well said that "the freest government, if it could exist, would not be long acceptable, if the tendency of the laws were to create a rapid accumulation of property in few hands, and to render the great mass of the population dependent and

Today many Americans ask the uneasy question: Is the vocif-eration that our liberties are in danger justified by the facts?

LARGE JARS STANDIOS

Today's answer on the part of ery part of the country is far more accurate than it would have been in 1929—for the very sim-ple reason that during the past nine years we have been doing a lot of common sense Their answer is that if there is that danger it comes from that concentrated private economic power which is struggling so hard to master our democratic government. It will not come as some (by no means all) of the sors of that private would make the people believe-from our democratic government through interlocking spheres of influence over channels of investment, and through the use of companies and strategic minority interests, creates close control of the business policies of entermasquerade as inprises which dependent units.

That heavy hand of integrated financial and management control lies upon large and strategic areas of American industry. The small businessman is unfortunately being driven into a less American life. You and I must

MASKING ITSELF AS FREE ENTERPRISE

Private enterprise is ceasing to be free enterprise and is becoming a cluster of private collectivisms: Masking itself as a system of free enterprise after American model, it is in fact becoming a concealed cartel system after the European model.

We all want efficient industrial growth and the advantages of mass production. No one suggests we return to the hand loom or hand forge. A series of processes involved in turning out a given manufactured product may well require one or more huge mass production plants. Modern efficiency may call for this. But modern efficient mass production is not furthered by a central control which destroys competition between industrial plants, each capable of efficient mass production while operating as separate units. Industrial efficiency does not have to mean industrial empire building.

OPPOSES BANKER CONTROL OF INDUSTRY

And industrial empire building, unfortunately, has evolved into banker control of industry.

We oppose that. Such control does not offer safety for the investing public. Investment judgment requires the disinterested appraisal of other people's management. It be-comes blurred and distorted if it is combined with the conflicting duty of controlling the management it is supposed to judge.
Interlocking financial controls have taken from American busi-ness much of its traditional virility, independence, adaptability and daring—without compensating advantages. They have not given the stability they prom-Business enterprise needs new

III. The decline of competition and its effects on employment: In output per man or machine, we are the most efficient industrial nation on earth.

In the matter of complete mutual employment of capital and labor we are among the least efficient. Our difficulties of employing labor and capital are not new. We have had them since good free land gave out in the west at the turn of the century. They were old before we undertook changes in our tax policy or in our labor and social legislation. were caused not by this legislation but by the same forces which caused the legislation. The problem of bringing idle men and idle money together will not be solved by abandoning the forward steps we have taken to adjust the burdens of taxation more fairly and to attain social justice and security. If you believe with me in private initiative, you must acknowledge the right of wellmanaged small business to expect to make reasonable profits. You must admit that the destruction of this opportunity follows concentration of control of any given industry into a small num-ber of dominating corporations.

One of the primary causes of our present difficulties lies in the disappearance of price competition in many industrial fields, particularly in basic manufacture where concentrated economic power is most evident -and where rigid prices and fluctuating pay rolls are general.

MANAGED PRICES

MEAN FEWER JOBS Managed industrial prices mean fewer jobs. It is no accident that, in industries like ce-ment and steel where prices have remained firm in the face of a falling demand pay rolls have shrunk as much as 40 and 50 per cent in recent months. Nor is it mere chance that in most competitive industries where prices adjust themselves quickly to falling demand, pay rolls and employment have been far better maintained. By prices of course, the prices of the finished articles and not wages paid to workers.

HOUSING SHORTAGE

A PERFECT EXAMPLE Our housing shortage is a percontrol prices interferes with the ability of private enterprise to fill the needs of the community provide employment for capital and labor.

On the other hand we have some lines of business, large and small, which are genuinely com petitive. Often these competitive industries must buy their basis products from monopolistic industry, thus losing, and causing the public to lose, a large part of the benefit of their own competitive policy. Furthermore, in times of recession, the practices of monopolistic industries make it difficult for business or agriculture which is competitive and does not curtail production below normal needs, to find a market for its goods even at reduced prices. For at such times a large number of customers of agriculture and competitive industry are being thrown out of work by those non-competitive industries which choose to hold their prices rather than to move their goods and to employ their

If private enterprise left to its own devices becomes half-regi-mented and half-competitive, half-slave and half-free, as it is today, it obviously cannot adjust itself to meet the needs and the demands of the country. Most complaints for violations of the anti-trust laws are made by businessmen against other businessmen. Even the most monopolistic businessman disap proves of all monopolies but his We may smile at this as being just an example of human away the fact that the combined effect of the monopolistic controls which each business group imposes for its own benefit, inevitably destroys the buying power of the nation as a whole.

NOT MEAN EXPLOITATION Competition, of course, like all other good things, can be carried to excess. Competition should not extend to fields where it has demonstrated bad social and economic consequences. The exploitation of child labor, the chiseling of workers' wages, the stretching of workers' hours are not neces sary, fair or proper methods of competition. I have consistently urged a federal wage and hours bill to take the minimum decencies of life for the working man and woman out of the field of competition. WITH KNOWLEDGE, NOT ON IMPULSE

It is, of course, necessary to op- THE HARDER TASK erate the competitive system of free enterprise intelligently. gauging the market for their businessmen, like the wares farmers, should be given all possible information by government and by their own associations so that they may act with knowledge and not on impulse. which there is no obvious need. It is, of course, necessary encourage rises in the level of those competitive prices, such as agricultural prices, which must rise to put our price structure into more workable balance and debt burden more erable. Many such competitive prices are now too low.

It may at times be necessary to give special treatment to chronically sick industries which have deteriorated too far for natural revival, especially those which have a public or quasi-public

But generally over the field of industry and finance we must revive and strengthen competition if we wish to preserve and make workable our traditional system of free private enterprise. The justification of private profit is private risk. We cannot safely make America safe for the businessman who does not want to take the burdens and risks of being a businessman.

V. THE CHOICE

Examination of methods of conducting and controlling private enterprise which keep it from furnishing jobs or income or opportunity for one-third of the population is long overdue on the part of those who sincerely want to preserve the system of private enterprise for profit.

No people, least of all a demo cratic people, will be content to go without work or to accept some standard of living which obviously and woefully falls short of their capacity to produce. No people, least of all a people with our traditions of personal liberty, will endure the slow erosion of opportunity for the com mon man, the oppressive sense of helplessness under the domina tion of a few, which are over-shadowing our whole economic

BUSINESS COLLECTIVISM FOLLOWS IN GOVERNMENT A discerning magazine of busi ness has editorially pointed out that big business collectivism in industry compels an ultimate collectivism in government.

The power of a few to manage the economic life of the nation must be diffused among the many or be transferred to the public and its democratically responsible government. If prices are to be managed and administered, if the nation's business is to be allotted by plan and not by competition, that power should not be vested in any private group or cartel, however benevo-lent its professions profess to be. Those people, in and out of the tive efforts to eliminate socially and economically harmful methods of competition in partic-ular industries are thwarted by fear of possible technical viola-tions of the anti-trust laws, re-medial legislation should be conhalls of government, who encourage the growing restriction of competition either by active efforts or by passive resistance to mpts to change sidered. trend, are shouldering a terrific

(A) Investment trusts. Investment trusts should brought under strict control to insure their operations in the interests of their investors rather than their managers. The Securities and Exchange Commission is to make a report to congress on the results of a comprehensive study of investment trusts and their operations which it has carried on for nearly two years. The investment trust, like the holding company, puts huge ag-gregations of the capital of the public at the direction of a few managers. Unless properly restricted, it has potentialties of abuse second only to the holding company as a device for the further centralization of control over American industry and American finance. The tremendous investment funds controlled by our great insurance companies have a certain kinship to investment trusts, in that these companies invest as trustees the savings of millions of our people. The Securities and Exchange Commission should be authorized to make an investigation of the facts relating to these investments with particular attention to their use as an instrument of economic power. WOULD RESTRICT BANK

I recommend that the congress recommend that the congress enact at this session legislation that will effectively control the operation of bank holding com-panies; prevent holding companies from acquiring control of any more banks, directly or indirectly; prevent banks controlled by holding companies from establishing any more branches; and make it illegal for a holding company, or any corporation, or enterprise in which it is financially interested, to borrow from or sell securities to a bank in which it holds stock.

I recommend that this bank legislation make provision for the gradual separation of banks from holding company control or own-ership, allowing a reasonable time for this accomplishmenttime enough for it to be done in an orderly manner and without causing inconvenience to communities served by holding company banks.

(5) Patent laws. Amendmen of the patent laws to prevent their use to suppress inventions, and to create industrial monop-olies. Of course such amendment should not deprive the inventor of his royalty rights, but generally speaking, future pat-ents might be made available for use by any one upon payment of appropriate royalties. Open patent pools have voluntarily been put into effect in a number of important industries with some results.

cies should be devised to give af-firmative encouragement to com-

Attention might be directed to increasing the intercorporate dividend tax to discourage ing companies and to further graduating the corporation income tax according to size. The graduated tax need not be so high as to make bigness impracticable,

OF INDUSTRIAL ECONOMICS

(7) Bureau of Industrial Economics. Creation of a bureau of industrial economics which should be endowed with adequate powers to supplement and su-pervise the collection of industrial statistics by trade associa-tions. Such a bureau should perform for businessmen functions similar to those performed for the farmers by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

It should disseminate current statistical and other information regarding market conditions and be in a position to warn against the dangers of temporary over-production and excessive inven-tories as well as against the danof shortages and bottleneck conditions and to encourage the It should study trade fluctuations credit facilities and other conditions which affect the welfare of the average businessman. It should be able to help small businessmen to keep themselves as well informed about trade conditions as their big competi-

No man of good faith will mis-interpret these proposals. They derive from the oldest American traditions. Concentration of economic power in the few and the resulting unemployment of labor and capital are inescapable problems for a modern "private en-terprise" democracy. I do not be-lieve that we are so lacking in stability that we will lose faith in our own way of living just because we seek to find out how to make that way of living work more effectively. This program should appeal to

INSTALLMENT XXII.

"What happened to alter your impression? I mean, why did you think he was tall at first, and then stop thinking so?"

"Oh, but I didn't," said Sylvia a little breathlessly. Mr. Brook was of an admirable patience. He said, "Will you try and tell me what you mean? It's very interesting, you know."

She smiled and relaxed. It was nice to feel interesting, she really tried to remember.

"When he rang up just before we went to Wellings I thought it was wonderful of him to help me, because I was feeling as if I I didn't notice about his being tall or anything like that, but when I gave him the envelope in the drive cape him. at Wellings he - somehow he frightened me dreadfully. Mr. Brooks smiled encouragingly. Sk know exactly what you mean. You would have that feeling about the inspector perhaps, but you wouldn't have it about me."

Sylvia looked pleased. She liked mind to steal papers from the home secretary. She can't put two sentences together without contradicting herself, and she can't give a rational answer to save her life.

"An irritating witness, but not, I think, an untruthful one," Mr. Brook said, looking up from making themselves the house for a very few minutes, and he had every opportunity of doing so. He and Lady Colesborough were the only two of the house party who were not playing cards."

Colonel Anstruther was obviously impressed. "Then you think that there were two of them both calling themselves."

Sylvia looked pleased. She liked Mr. Brook. He knew at once what she meant.

He said, "Then that was the first time you were actually in contact with Mr. Zero, and you got an im-pression that he was tall?" Sylvia's lovely eyes widened. "Oh, no," she said.

"But, Lady Colesborough-"It wasn't the first time." Mr. Brook showed no sign of disturbance. He said gently, "Tell me about the first time, will you?"

"Do you mean the first time he telephoned?" asked Sylvia.

The first time he did anything," said Mr. Brook firmly. "Oh, that was on a Friday, because I'd just been having my hair done — shampoo and set — you know."

"You remember it by that?" "I always remember about his hair," said Sylvia in a reverential confessed to her husband. One thing is certain, she was much more afraid of Sir Francis Colesmore as sorry—about my losing than she was of Mr. Zero. "I always remember about my all that money, you know—and if I would meet him, he was quite sure something could be arranged. "An irritating witness, but not, I think, an untruthful one," Mr. Brook said, looking up from making a note. "An undeveloped mentality and a childish outlook, but no deliberate attempt to pervert facts. One or two useful points emerged from her evidence. She was not frightened of Mr. Zero until she met him in the drive of Wellings. It was then that he began to strike her as tall and up in the air. I believe that was the only occasion on which his physical presence alarmed her. For the rest of the time she was afraid of his threats, of what he might do, and of her husband getting to know, but I don't think that he himself inspired her with any particular dread, or she would not so readily have agreed to meet him at the

I find this very suggestive, and one of the things it suggests is that the person to whom she handed you believe Lady Colesborough's have been Sir Francis himself."
"Bless my soul, Mr. Brook,"
Colonel Anstruther exclaimed,
"that's a bit of a tall order!"

Mr. Brook smiled. "Not so tall, sir, if you will cast your mind back to the letter Sir Francis left behind him when he jumped out of that window to follow Lady Colesborough."

"You think he followed her?" "I think there is no doubt about that. He was very sharply and intimately disturbed or he would that the letter of this charnot have left a letter of this char-acter lying open upon his table. to know about his being something in the government."

CO-OP PROBE LAID TO COTTON TRADE

Chairman Smith Interrupts ACCA Chief To Deny Such Motivation.

WASHINGTON, April 29.-(AP) Testimony that the cotton trade inspired the lengthy senate investigation of the American Cotton Co-operative Association brought an explosive protest tonight from Chairman Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee. N. C. Williamson, president of the big cotton co-operative, told the committee this and other in-vestigations were motivated by the cotton trade and "those who want to cripple the farmer co-operative movement."

Smith, sponsor of the investigation, interrupted:

"Any insinuation that I was motivated by the cotton trade in sponsoring this investigation is a malicious or vicious attempt to discredit all I've done for agriculture and especially cotton in the last 30 years."

Williamson, cotton producer from Lake Providence, La., earlier had said co-operative officials who deal with the farmers had received no complaints either "from members or non-members.

"All these complaints are not coming from the farmers," he said. "Wherever there has been an in-vestigation it has had all the aiding, abetting and assistance of those who want to cripple the cotton co-operative. The cotton trade is in it."

American Teams Play To Win, Never for Fun, British Charge

LONDON, England.—(By Mail.)—America has just won the English basketball championship and I am sure you were not aware of it. And even had you been aware, might have said, "What of it?"

Nevertheless, America has won it. A team of young missionaries, which the Daily Mail refers to as: "Take a look at the Rochdale Greys, a team of sturdy, nonsmoking, teetotal American missionaries, who beat Plaistow eastern conference champions, but Y. M. C. A. by 60 points to 33-all scored in a vivid 40 minutes-and you will see the difference.

"Introduced to England just after the Great War, the game down at the turn, came back to is slowly spreading. There are now about 200 teams in the win on the 19th hole. Both play- amateur basketball association of England and Wales."

That is an old plaint, that business of "ritual." I like England and the English. They both are very fine. But that old by dint of a third place in the las land and the English. They both are very fine. But that old charge of the Americans playing the game to win, and not to charge of the Americans playing the game to win, and not charge of the Americans playing the game to win, and not charge of the Americans playing the game to win, and not charge of the Americans playing the game to win, and not charge of the Americans playing the game to win, and not charge of the America charge of the Americans playing the game to win, and not to event.

enjoy it, is getting too old and hoary to be inserted into the papers again. In the first place, no people could be more ritual alistic about anything than the English. They make a religion of cricket and almost a religion of rugger and association football. They work at it and cheer at it with desperate intensity.

The American teams practice, not merely for the sake of ritual, but in order to learn to play the game well. They derive more enjoyment from playing the game well. The Englishman, because other nations, and particularly America, will not train in the same maner or work as lightly at the game, are quite sure the Americans obtain no fun from their games. Which charge, of course, is not true. The American, in any game in which a score is kept, wants to win. Why else do they keep score but to determine the winner?

As a matter of fact, the average Englishman whom I have met, does not think in the same terms with the newspaper critics. He wishes the English athletes would get down to business and give the empire some victories in international events, particularly the Olympic games, and not mere "pastime."

SOCCER FOOTBALL.

The players use their heads, most literally, in a most amazing fashion. Not allowed to touch the ball with their hands, they can butt the ball with unbelievable accuracy. Their handling of the ball with their feet, too, is developed to a high degree of skill. They can, at top speed, take the ball down field, "nursing" it along with their feet. They do not kick it so well. It is not shaped for kicking, as is the "rugger" ball.

Quite incidentally, the boo is one of the loudest sounds at any of the English games. I had thought that we ruder cousins on the other side of the Atlantic were the only ones to enjoy the call of the wild raspberry. After all, the boo, while it may not be sporting, is nothing but the good old English and American habit of complaining at something which is not approved. "The beef" was guaranteed by the Magna Charta and our own Constitution of the United States guarantees the American citizen his right to "beef." Cricket is about to take over the stage. MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, Thursday,-Suddenly today summer weather is with us and I wish that one could travel with a wardrobe trunk instead of one suitcase. I am afraid that if this weather spreads to New England, I shall be very warm indeed in Boston tomorrow in a suit trimmed with fur. Yesterday afternoon was a busy and interesting time for me. I spent an hour in the office of the Bureau of Vocational Service for juniors. The National Youth Administration borrowed Dr. Mary Hays from them to work on the reemployment and adjustment of young people all over the country. She was loaned for a few months and is now, I think, on her third year of work, so the nation owes this particular private organization a debt of gratitude.

I went from one little office to another and saw young people telling their problems to trained counselors. I looked through some of the questionnaires and was told about their psychological test which covers mental capacity and the ability to do things with one's hands. I was particularly interested in the scholarship phase of the work, which makes it possible to retrain those who are not quite prepared for the work they want to do. The group which seemed to me most difficult to serve was the group between 21 and 25. The members of this group who are working, or trying to obtain work, often cannot secure permanent employment or are in dead-end jobs with no permanent advance-ment because of their lack of training or education. They need help almost more than do the younger ones who are either trying to stay in school a little longer or trying to get their first placement.

At 5 o'clock, Mrs. Scheider and I went to a tea given by Mr. George Carlin, head of the United Feature Syndicate. Editors, publishers and their wives were present in great numbers. I knew a few of them and stood with my fellow columnists to shake hands with them as they came in. Mr. Raymond Clapper stood next to me for quite a while and I was most envious of the people who came in and called him by his first name and seemed see him. It was a very nice party, but I regretted not being able to talk with many of the interesting people who were simply passing by and shaking my hand!

After dinner, Miss Esther Lape and I went to see Ethel Barrymore in "White Oaks." The play is taken from the novel, "White Oaks of Jala," by Mazo De La Roche. I enjoyed the book very much when I read it, especially the character of the old grand-mother. I have never admired Miss Barrymore as much as I did in this role. It is a most perfect character part as she plays it. I am sure that you will be interested as well as entertained if you spend an evening at the Hudson theater.

Isn't he indulging in one of those dangerous generalizations that aims at the truth and misses it a mile? There may be wives who work for the fun of the game and some that work for the luxuries they could do without; but the vast majority of wives that get up in the morning, make coffee, straighten up their houses, grab their hats, dash off to business, toil eight hours and then dash to market and home again to prepare dinner for the family are motivated by something more than love of luxury or excitement. It's likely to be grim necessity that gears them to this

Certain rails rallied moderately

Inspiration for the belated comeback was attributed mainly to word from Washington the wage-hour bill much disliked in the financial sector, may have received its death blow through action of the house rules committee to of the house rules are the house rules ar in refusing to approve a special Southern Railway 4s.

The President's monopoly message to congress, recommending an appropriation of $500,000 for a comprehensive study of the "con-American industry and the effect of that concentration upon the jecline of competition," came too late to be a market influence, although speculative contingents generally had been inclined to step lightly pending publication of the communication. step lightly pending publication of the communication's text.

Aircrafts were benefited by the revival of the rearmament campaign abroad in which it was expected much heavier orders for planes would come to the United States.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.
COURTS & CO.—Probably the nearterm action of the market will be largely influenced by the President's message to congress on monopolies, which it is reported will be transmitted Friday aftrepoted will be transmitted Friday atternoon.

BEER & CO.—The list, in our opinion, remains in a very uncertain position and has not, as yet, established a basis for the expectation of any general improvement. Friday's minor strength may carry throughout Saturday, but is not likely to last much, if any, longer.

THOMSON & McKINNON—Some clarification of business and political trends would probably restore sentiment and reverse the course of stock prices.

FENNER & BEANE—The fate of the market from an immediate viwpoint would seem to revolve about the contents of the monopoly message.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Stocks steadied after sharply lower opening and after idling through most of the session. There was closing rally on news that house rules committee refused to bring wage and hour bill before house. Main interest at the moment is in President's monopoly message.

COURTS & CO.—We look for the market to continue a narrow trading affair with a sagging tendency.

BEER & CO.—We favor purchases on THOMSON & MCKINNON-The next THOMSON & MCKINNON—The next major move will be influenced by weather conditions and pending this we look for a trading market with preference to the long side on declines.

FENNER & BEANE—Outside influences continue to be principal market influence now that the May position is about cleaned up.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—The market has acted well under pressure of foreign selling, but shows little rallying power and appears to need new incentive to carry prices above 9-cent level.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—We do not expect any radical change in values, although there is nothing at the moment to encourage outside speculation or more than moderate price fixing by mills.

than moderate price fixing by mills.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—See no change in the situation except that the price is lower, but we think wheat is much too high. If crop comes through as promised.

BEER & CO.—We remain bearish and favor sales on any buiges.

THOMSON & McKINNON.—Sentiment remains extremely bearish, but it seems likely, improved foreign and domestic demand will offset much of the effects of further liquidation.

FENNER & BEANE—No basis as yet for expecting rallies to hold, though in view of unfavorable crop conditions in Europe.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—We continue to believe wheat and continue to the standard of the situation of the standard to iew of unfavorable con-lurope. E. A. PIERCE & CO.—We continue to E. A. PIERCE & CO.—We continue to

AVERAGE PRICE. NEW ORLEANS, April 29 .-(AP)-The average price of middling cotton today at ten south-ern spot markets was 8.76 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 8.74 cents a pound. NEW YORK, April 29 .- (AP)-Cotton was lower today as foreign and domestic markets eased. July, which had reacted from 8.78 to 8.74 and then recovered to 8.80, closed at 8.76. Last prices were 4 to 9 points net lower.

The market opened 4 to 5 points lower in sympathy with the action of Liverpool and under foreign selling. Offerings were not ag-gressive and after foreign mar-kets closed the tone ruled about steady. A little covering carried prices to within a few points of the previous close late in the ses-sion, but moderate hedging caused another setback. Exports 8,844, making 5,274,247 so far this season. Port receipts 16,306; United States port stocks 2,806,677.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Outbursts of stop-loss selling attendant on efforts to avoid acceptance of deliveries on May contracts plunged Chicago wheat prices down 2 cents late today.

The tumble carried May to a new four-year bottom price rec-ord, 79 cents a bushel. Suggestions the domestic winter crop this season would exceed any yield since 1931 accompanied the fall.

Estimates of European purchases totaling 800,000 bushels of United States wheat and 1,500,-000 bushels of corn failed to act as much of a stimulus.

as much of a stimulus.

Corn, rye and oats were domianated by wheat, although corn values derived steadiness from enlarged export demand. Corn receipts in Chicago continued liberal, 494 cars, with rural holders marketing freely marketing freely.

Provisions went lower with hog values, cottonseed oil and grains.

Bank Clearings

Although rising sharply from the total of the preceding week, volume of bank clearings for the current period was smaller than in the corresponding week a year earlier for the twenty-fourth straight time. The year-to-year decline, however, was less severe than for any weekly period since early last November. Heavy transactions reported for New York, which showed an increase over the corresponding total of the year previous for the first time since the week of October 20, last, were wholly responsively for the improved exhibit this week for the country, as a whole.

Total clearings for 22 leading cities of the United States for the week ended Wednesday, April 20, according to Dun & Badditeet. Inc., amounted to $5,379,—815,000, a drop of only 3.8 per cent from the comparative 1937 figure of $3,580,—821,000. This contrasted with a decline of 18.5 per cent in the similar comparison for the week prevous. New York clearings expanded to $3,574,—422,000 from $3,345,072,000 a year ago, giving a rise of 6.9 per cent. Oxiside of New York, however, the turnover was only $1,805,839,000, or 19.6 per cent less than the $2,244,748,000 reported last year.

Clearings for the latest period went $20,581,000 above the total of the week preceding. This was a direct reversal of the situation in 1937, when the comparison for the two similar weeks disclosed a drop of $238,687,000.

Declines appeared at all outside centers this week, the more important of which included: Detrest, 38.5 per cent; Pittsburgh, 35.6 per cent; Xansas City. 29.1 per cent, Louisville, 27.0 per cent, Entrainst, 25.3 per cent; Pittsburgh, 35.6 per cent; Kansas City. 29.1 per cent, 2014 per cent, and Dallas. 20.0 per cent.

Bank clearings at eaching cities, compared with those of 1937, are given herewith, also, the dally average bank clearings for the months of February, March, and April to date.

Hughes Sees Rise in Bank Loans As Hopeful Sign for U. S. Business

Too Early To Determine Trend Despite Credit Expansion, Says Writer.

By GEORGE T. HUGHES.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper, Alliance, Inc.) NEW YORK, April 29 .- It is too early to say that there has been a definite change in trend, but the fact is that, in recent statements both of the New York city banks and of all the reporting member banks, credit is shown to tracting. Interesting Coincidence. business and the bear market in business and the bear market in stocks. There are those who deny Companies announcing unfacontracting credit and business recession and there are those who take the opposite position. Even the former admit that there is a lag between the movement of credit and the course of business, but insist that one follows the contracting credit and the course of business, but insist that one follows the contracting unfavorable dividend action included: Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, Greenfield Tap & Die Corporation, Fitz Simons & Connell Dredge & Dock Company, Union Bag & Paper Corporation and Quaker State Oil Refining Corporation. stocks. "Of course it won't happen again," Mary answered grimly; "because I won't give you a chance. I know you now, Jeff Biggers, for what you are—a sneaking rat. Yes, I promised to marry you, but you've forfeited the right to hold me to that promise."

"But you won't shoot me, will you, Mary?" Jeff begged. Now he was interested only in saving his life. "No," the girl replied; "I'll keep you here until Tarzan comes. "I'm sure he'll follow here until Tarzan comes. "I'm sure he'll follow us." Jeff trembled. He could imagine Tarzan's re-action to this incident.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Suddenly Jeff's eyes grew wide. "Look out! Behind you!" he cried. The girl smiled. "You can't catch me with that old trick!" But this was no trick. In the undergrowth Jeff had seen the savage faces of Zambeh warriors. The next moment that leaved at Mary! ment they leaped at Mary!

Coker Succeeds Traylor as Association Head; Atlanta Picked.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 29.—(P) The Georgia Medical Association named Dr. William H. Myers, of Savannah, today as president-elect Tixy bay, on the northern Sibe-and elevated Dr. Grady L. Coker, rian coast. The icebreakers of Canton, to the presidency.
Dr. Coker succeeds Dr. George
A. Traylor of Augusta.

The association selected Atlanta for its 1939 convention.

Other officers, beside Dr. Myers, elected today were Dr. Peter B. Wright, of Augusta, first vice president; Dr. Bruce Schaffer, of Toccoa, second vice president, and Dr. John H. Simons, of Bruns-Moore, Mr. Edward W.—Mr. (re-elected,) parliamentarian

Dr. Myers also was voted to continue as association delegate to the American Medical Association, which meets at San Francisco in June. Dr. C. W. Roberts, of At-lanta, also was continued as a delegate, Alternates are Dr. W. A. Mul-herin, of Augusta, and Dr. M. C. Pruitt, of Atlanta. The association accepted as councilors Dr. C. B. Lord, of Jefferson, for the ninth district, and Dr. H. L. Cheeves, of Union Point, for the tenth district. The President-Elect. The new president-elect is a graduate of the University of Ten-

He is married and has three children, William Jr., a stu-dent at the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia; Miss Addine Myers and a younger son, Robert. Dr. W. P. Sydenstricker, profes-sor of medicine at the University of Georgia Medical School at Augusta, was awarded the L. Hardman cup for his work in the cause and cure of pellagra.

The association gave approval to an amendment to the state constitution which would permit counties to levy taxes to care for indigent sick. The amendment be submitted to the people in the November general election.
Rural Practice Fees.

The association also approved committee reports recommending fees be waived for medical students who go to rural districts to practice, and urging legislation to check promiscuous sale of drugs not approved by the American Medical Association or under the pure food and drugs act.

The doctors deferred decision on whether the film "The Birth of a Baby" should be shown publicly in the state."

A new organization, the Industrial Surgeons' Association, was formed today. Dr. C. F. Holton, of Savannah, was named president: Dr. R. L. Rhodes, of Augusta, vice president, and Dr. John Simmons, of Brunswick, secretary-treasurer. The new association will meet with the insurance claims Agents' Association and the Georgia Manufacturers' Association in handling industrial claims prob-
